Death Toll in Arkansas Hits 12 for Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A 78-year-old man perished last night in flames which destroyed his home near Weldon. His death raised Arkansas' violent death toll to 12 for the week which ended Sunday midnight.

One other person died of burns during the week in which traffic accidents claimed four lives, two persons were stabbed fatally, one drowned, a home workshop explosion killed a man, a youth was crushed to death beneath an overturned tractor and another was killed while cutting timber.

At Weldon — 20 miles south of Newport—Joseph Plummer Sweat led his wife out of his burning frame home and then dashed back inside. Mrs. Sweat said she did not know what prompted her husband to go back into the blazing house, but Coroner Otis Dillingham said Sweat apparently was trying to fight the flames.

The victim's body was recovered from the ruins about two hours later.

A commercial fisherman apparently drowned in the Mississippi River south of Helena.

Sheriff Edgar Hickey said officers looking for Terry Hewie, 30, of the Modoc community, found Hewie's sunken boat and the nets he was running—but no trace of the fisherman. Hickey said Hewie could not swim.

William Joiner, a 48-year-old Van, Ark., Negro, died Friday of injuries suffered earlier in the week in an accident on State Highway 1, seven miles northeast of De Witt.

Move to Restrict Judge Fails in Court

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A legislative effort to restrict the authority of Circuit Judge C. Floyd Huff of Hot Springs in selection of jury commissioners failed in the Arkansas Supreme Court today.

The court, in a unanimous opinion, upheld Gov. Orval Faubus' veto of a 1957 bill which would have forced Huff to share his power with two other officials in each of the two counties comprising his district — Garland and Montgomery.

The dispute centered on whether Faubus received the bill within less than five working days before the Legislature adjourned. Any measure not signed or disapproved by the governor within five days of receipt automatically becomes law except that the executive has an additional 20 days to act on bills on which the period has not expired at the time the Legislature adjourns. Faubus vetoed the bill approximately two weeks after the 1957 Legislature adjourned.

5c Stamp Big Budget Surprise

WASHINGTON (AP)—The biggest surprise in history's biggest peacetime budget is a five-cent stamp. President Eisenhower would have it replace three-cent postage on inter-city letters.

Eisenhower told Congress today he is depending on this and other increases in postal rates to put the federal government back into black ink in fiscal 1959.

Booneville Loses 3 Stores in Bldg. Fire

BOONEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Fire leveled a 2-story brick building here last night shortly after an explosion ripped through the downtown structure.

A fireball was credited with preventing the wind-whipped flames from spreading into an adjoining building, and possibly sweeping the entire 3-block business district.

Housed in the fire-razed building were a hardware store, a grocery and a men's clothing store—all owned by G. W. Tatum of Booneville.

Tatum said he could not make an estimate of the loss but volunteered Fire Chief Darby Griffee said he understood the damage would amount to $125,000 to $135,000.

Townpeople—many of whom were en route to church when the explosion occurred about 7 p. m.—said the blast hurled bricks from the section of the building housing the hardware store into business establishments across the street. No one was injured.

Booneville's volunteer firemen, aided by a fire unit from the nearby State Tuberculosis Sanatorium, poured water on the smoldering ruins long after the walls of the building had collapsed.

Griffee said a fireball between the three stores and a women's clothing store — also owned by Tatum — kept the blaze from spreading.

Tatum said he could not imagine what caused the explosion. Bystanders speculated that the blast might have been caused by an accumulation of gas.

The merchant said part of his loss would be covered by insurance.

Business Will Be Helped, Ike Believes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President

Eisenhower told Congress today his record peacetime spending program will help cure the business recession, and business recovery in turn will bring the budget back into balance.

Though the government is skidding into red ink this year, Eisenhower predicted in his budget message that rising tax collections will balance the budget for fiscal 1959 with half a billion dollars to spare.

Budget Director Percival F. Brundage supplied the explanation for Eisenhower's optimism. The Council of Economic Advisers, the Federal Reserve Board and Treasury were consulted on the economic outlook, Brundage said.

"They anticipate a substantial recovery before summer," he said.

Eisenhower's forecast of government revenues in the year starting July 1 was based on an estimate that the personal income of Americans would total $93 billion dollars this calendar year, nine billion more than in 1957.

Corporate profits, which in recession periods tend to fall more quickly and recover more slowly than individual incomes, are estimated at $2 billion dollars this year, the same as 1957.

Secretary of the Treasury Anderson told a news conference that some additional factors contributed to the administration's optimism. These, he said, include reports showing that business inventories have been reduced to normal in many cases; interest charges have dropped; housing activity apparently is reviving; department stores reported record Christmas sales; and a resurgence of business confidence has appeared.

Arkansas River Work to Total $22 Million

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 22-million dollar program for work on the Arkansas River in Arkansas and Oklahoma in the fiscal year starting next July was recommended to Congress today by President Eisenhower.

The bulk of this—some $15 million dollars—is for continuing construction work on three big dams in Oklahoma—Keystone, Onaloga and Eufaula. All three are important parts of the long range plan for development of the Arkansas river for flood control, navigation and power.

In his budget recommendations to Congress the president asked 1½ million dollars to continue construction of the big 94 million dollar Dardanelle Dam in Arkansas upstream from Little Rock.

This dam—to provide power and water for navigation whenever a 9-foot channel is completed—was opposed by President Eisenhower for seven years on a contention that its start would commit the country to the billion dollar Arkansas River development program.

However, Congress overrode the president two years ago and voted funds to start construction on the dam. The amount in the new budget would increase to about 3½ million dollars construction money for the project.

Engineers do not plan to complete Dardanelle until the Oklahoma dams upstream are finished so that they will not as siltation reservoirs for Dardanelle.

The president also asked $341,000 for emergency bank stabilization work on the river in Arkansas and Oklahoma; $900,000 in planning funds for general studies on the Arkansas River and, in the lower Mississippi project, asked $300,000 for levee work on the lower Arkansas.

He also asked funds to continue work on Table Rock reservoir, Greens Ferry dam and reservoir, additional power units at Bull Shoals, Walnut Bayou, Red River levees, the St. Francis basin and the Boonville and Tensas drainage project, largely in Arkansas.

A request also was made for $250,000 to complete planning of Beaver dam in northwestern Arkansas.

City Directory Survey Gets Underway

C. L. Moorhead of Moorhead Directory Service is in Hope making a business survey for the forthcoming Hope City and Hempstead Rural Route Directory.

This firm is a member of the Association of North American Directory Publishers and has been asked to the Chamber of Commerce 65 City Directories of other cities which the Association publishes, and this service is for the public free reference.

This is the first time Hope has had a directory published by an Association member. Moorhead publishes Camden and Magnolia and plans to make several other towns in Arkansas in the near future.

Directory will list firms, all persons 16 years of age and over, wives, parents, number of dependents under 18, occupation of each person, title and place of employment, resident street address and telephone number.

The Master Directory is made of five sections: Alpha, classified, street, numerical, telephone, and County Rural Routes. The Rural Routes will be all of Hempstead County alphabetical arranged by Route number.

A supplement edition will be published which contains all advertising, classified listings, and telephone numbers arranged numerically, those will be given to advertisers, and in turn will be given free to persons of Hope and vicinity.

The business survey is expected to take 30 days, with residence canvassing beginning about February 10th, with local ladies being hired to help with the survey.

Moorhead explained there is no charge for the business or residence listing. Advertising and Directories will be sold, with delivery tentatively set for April 1958.

Approval of this firm and its product has been given by the Board of Directors and Merchants Retail Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Congress Gets Record Peacetime Budget Just Shy of $74 Billion

Big Portion of Budget Is for the Military

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Military spending of a peacetime record $39,770,000,000 next year was asked by President Eisenhower today to add what he called "new dimensions . . . to our defense."

Submitting to Congress his budget for the year starting July 1, he said it reflects the great impact of science on modern military power.

"The tempo of change is increasing and the change during the coming year will be greater than in any preceding year," he said.

Missiles are soaring toward dominance in the American arsenal. The outlay for their perfection and production will be $3,914,000,000, already almost half the total for warplanes. Almost half the total missile outlay will be for ballistic weapons, where the race with Russia is keenest.

The proposed spending increase over this year is modest—$18 million.

Stolen Car, Several Auto Wrecks Probed

A series of accidents were investigated over the weekend by local and state police along with the theft and burning of an auto.

A Buick owned by Sid Rogers was reported stolen to police Sunday morning. The car was taken from in front of the Buick Agency here, local officers said. The vehicle was found burned later at Spirit Lake, between Garland and Lewisville, of officers said.

Sunday night on Highway 29, north, autos driven by Deputy Sheriff Jack Arnold and Ralph Lehman, collided with both vehicles having considerable fender damage.

About 11:30 a. m. Sunday autos driven by James McMurrough and R. C. Stuart collided on the Parnos road. State Policeman Guy Downing said there was heavy damage to both vehicles. Mr. Downing filed charge of driving without proper brakes against Stuart.

Saturday afternoon on North Hazel Street a truck driven by S. D. Delaney and an auto driven by Horace Williams collided with fender, door and bumper damage resulting to the car and bumper damage to the truck. Delaney was charged by investigating City Police with failure to give proper signal.

Saturday near Anthony's Mill, south on Highway 29, an auto driven by an unidentified soldier from Shreveport ran into and killed a mule on the highway. The soldier's car was demolished, investigating State Police said.

Early Monday on Highway 97 east near Perry's Truck stop a large truck left the road an tipped over when the vehicle's spring collapsed. State Policeman Guy Downing said the truck was carrying 40 cases of celery. Two occupants of the truck were not injured.

They were listed as Mr. and Mrs. Billy J. Pinkley of Millean, Tenn. The accident occurred at 5:40 a. m. The truck was heavily damaged.

Education's Share Totals $145 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress was asked today to appropriate $145 million dollars in the year starting July 1 to kick off President Eisenhower's proposed new program of federal aid to education.

Eisenhower estimated the total budget expenditures for the promotion of education during fiscal 1959 at 460 million dollars, compared to the estimated 353 million for fiscal 1958 which ends next June 30.

The president said that because of present conditions, he was submitting a request for $145 million.

Will Ask for Increase in Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower sent Congress today a record peacetime budget just short of 74 billion dollars. He said by far the largest part of it, almost two thirds, is for defense against growing danger from Russia in "the dawning age of space conquest."

The President disclosed that the government now expects to wind up in the red for the fiscal year ending June 30, its announced intention to ask for a short-term increase—he didn't say how much—in the present 275-billion-dollar limit on the national debt.

But he voiced confidence business will pick up and tax receipts will increase so that the new $73,000,000,000 budget, for the 1958-59 fiscal year, will be in balance. He said he expects a surplus of half a billion dollars or so, compared with the 400-million-dollar deficit now in sight for this year.

One surprise in the President's proposals for government spending and revenue collecting: He called for a 5-cent postage rate on all out-of-town first-class letters. Congress so far has rejected even his previous call for raising stamp prices from 3 to 4 cents for long and out-of-town letters alike.

The White House announced in advance that Eisenhower's budget message, which ran to some 22,000 words with a mass of figures attached, would outline a domestic program largely passed over in last Thursday's State of the Union message.

It did, but, like the earlier message, it put heaviest emphasis on security matters with a $30,000,000,000 request for the armed forces alone. With this expected boost, almost two billion dollars higher than last January's estimate, Eisenhower asked:

A $3,000,000,000 stepup in spending for missile and nuclear weapon research and production. This would give the Pentagon an extra $1,900,000,000 to spend as lion dollars. The difference is in the way the money would be spent.

For the first time, the words "military satellite" and "outer space vehicles" appear in the budget message as part of future planning.

Military manpower is headed for still another cutback. The 81,000 man reduction would include 30,000 in the Army, 28,000 in the Navy and Marine Corps, and 23,000 in the Air Force.

As missiles increase, aircraft diminish—fewer combat wings, fewer planes. But "all fighters and bombers proposed for procurement with 1959 appropriations will be capable of supersonic speeds," Eisenhower said.

That means the end of new orders for the subsonic all-jet B32 bomber when the presently planned total of 800 is reached.

The Air Force unit strength would be trimmed from a present 130 wings to 105 by the end of the next fiscal year, its inventory of planes cut by more than 1,200 from today's nearly 22,000.

Biggest cut would be in the Tactical Air Command—a reduction from 45 to 35 wings. Two reasons are behind this: the increasing use of missiles to supplant aircraft in support of Army ground forces, and a shrinkage in the ground forces themselves.

The Air Defense Command, which operates the interceptor force, would lose one wing, reducing it to 27 wings. The reason: more anti-aircraft missiles, like the new long-range Bomarc and the close-in Nike.

The Strategic Air Command, operators of the long and medium range nuclear striking force, will drop one wing for a total of 49, with the cut apparently in the present five wing reconnaissance force. The B32 force will stay in the planned strength of 11 wings.

The new B38 supersonic medium bomber will be procured in "production quantities," in the words of a defense official. The budget also asks funds to go forward with the new "chemical fuel" long-range bomber, an aircraft designed for 2,000 m.p.h. speed and able to reach Russia and return to U.S. bases, nonstop.

Eisenhower said construction of a new ballistic missile defense system would be started, along with expansion and improvement of the early warning radar network built to detect bomber attacks.

For tomorrow's warfare in space, Eisenhower referred to the soon-to-be formed "Advanced Research Projects Agency."

Funds are provided for an expanded research and development effort on military satellites and outer space vehicles, and on antimissile missile defense systems to be carried out directly under the secretary of defense.

As part of a $1,370,000,000 supplement to the present fiscal 1958 budget, the President proposes to provide 10 million dollars to start off A.R.P.A. plus an authorization to tap unexpended balances of the armed forces. In the new budget, 340 million dollars would be added to these funds.

The Navy will be provided a shipbuilding program of 23 vessels, plus the conversion of eight ships.

The new ship program will include a nuclear-propelled submarine equipped for firing the Regulus guided missile. Four other atomic-powered subs, and the Navy's first nuclear-powered fleet oiler, are authorized.

Jayne Gets Ready to Wed Muscle Man

By VERNON SCOTT

PALOS VERDES ESTATES, Calif. (UP)—Platinum-tressed Jayne Mansfield backed her bikini-less troussau today in a flurry of final preparations for her wedding tonight to Mickey Hargitay, former Mr. Universe.

The world-famed pin-up girl will exchange vows with the broad-shouldered Hargitay in a candle-light ceremony at the modernistic Wayfarer's Chapel of the Church of New Jerusalem at 10 p.m. e.s.t.

The Rev. Kenneth W. Knox will conduct the non-denominational rites.

Jayne's mother, Mrs. Harry L. Peers, Dallas, Tex., is matron of honor. Best man will be Ross Christina, Indianapolis business man.

The glamour girl's marriage climaxes a two-year courtship, and follows her divorce last Wednesday from Dallas public relations man Paul Mansfield.

Moved for her plunging necklines, the 24-year-old bride says she will not take a bikini swim suit—the trademark that launched her career—on her honeymoon. Her wedding gown also is conservative—a high-necked, long-sleeved creation by Charles Lemaire, wardrobe director at 20th Century-Fox Studios.

The gown is pink lace with a cloud of 30 yards of pink tulle underneath the skirt. Pink is the color of the day, with Jayne wearing pink pearls, pink earrings, pink shoes and a small band of pink lilacs tied to her coiffure.

Six ushers will seat 700 invited guests.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple will fly to Dallas where a reception will be held Tuesday at the Peers' home. Wednesday the newlyweds will fly to Miami, Fla., to honeymoon at the plush Eden Rock Hotel until Jan. 18.

Also Calls for Reduction in SPA Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reduced appropriations for the Southwestern Power Administration are proposed in the budget submitted to Congress by President Eisenhower today.

The budget recommended that an amount not to exceed $4,405,000 be taken from SPA's continuing fund for purchase of electric power and energy and rentals for transmission lines in the year starting July 1.

For the current year five million dollars was provided from the continuing fund for those purposes.

The budget also recommended appropriation of $975,000 for SPA's operation and maintenance in the next fiscal year. The appropriation for the current year was one million dollars.

No new appropriations for construction were recommended. The budget estimated there will be an unobligated balance of $722,000 carried forward. The current year's construction appropriation was $1,480,000.

The agency's continuing fund, accumulated from power receipts is available for emergency expenses necessary to insure maintenance of service. It also is used in such amounts as Congress approves each year in appropriation bills to cover purchase of power and rental of facilities for transmission and distribution.

Where else could you learn that Uncle Sam is replacing two dumbwaiters at the Capitol at a cost of $12,000? Or that Congress needs $229,000 to foot the bill for folding documents in fiscal 1959?

The Commerce Department is asking $57,000 for earthquake investigative work. Apparently, the field is envisioned in this field inasmuch as the "to-rent" year's quake doings are expected to cost about $117,000.

The Naturalization and Immigration Service shared 294 slow-downs last year.

The Coast Guard, along with its many other duties, managed to patrol 924 regattas.

The Internal Revenue Service sent tax refunds to 30,845,998 Americans in fiscal 1957.

It'll cost about 1 1/2 million dollars in the upcoming year keeping tabs on American being born getting married and dying.

The FBI will spend much more, however, keeping track of persons for other reasons.

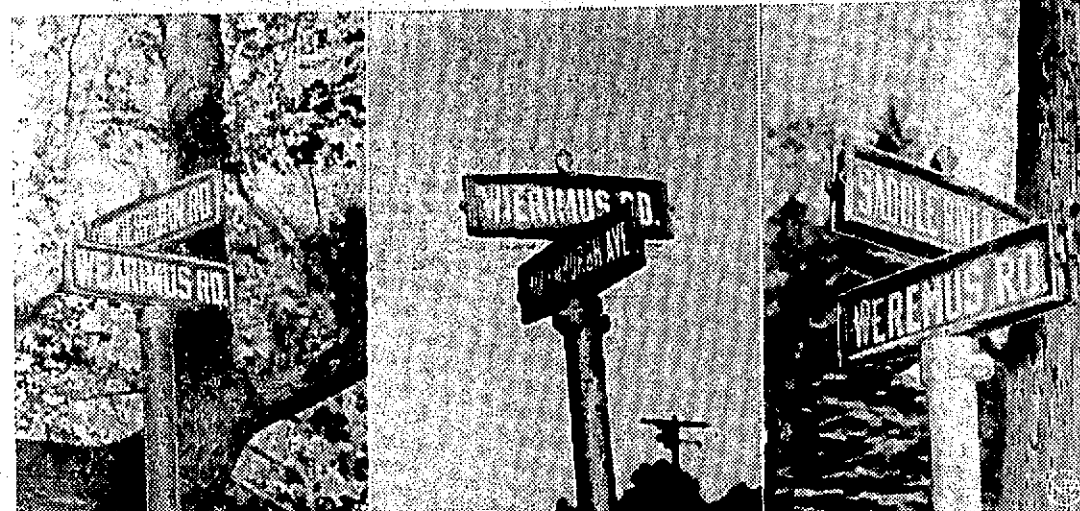

Federal juries are expected to be busier than ever and 3 1/2 million dollars is being counted on for jurors' pay, up half a million from this year.

Under the statement for the President's Advisory Commission for Presidential Office Space, there was this listing:

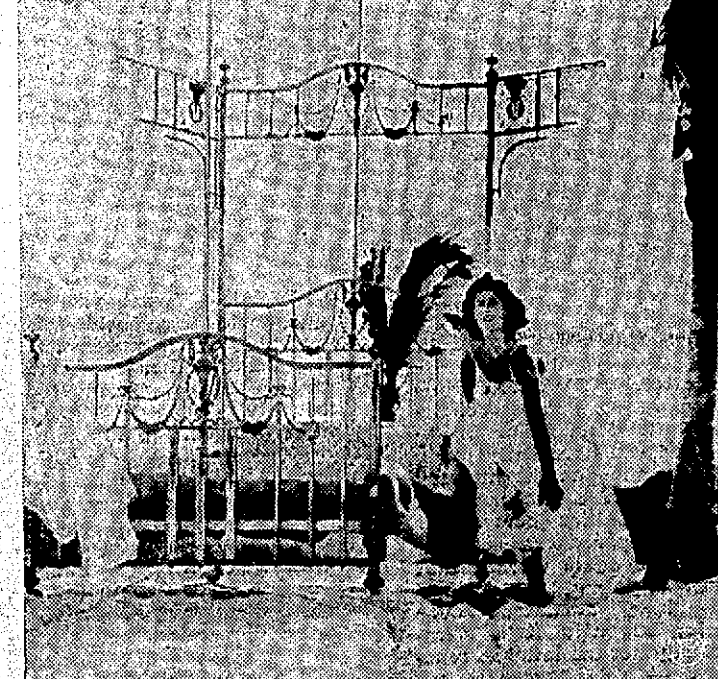

Average number of employees in 1957—one.
Number of employees at end of year—none.
Three services look like this:
Army—Present budget, estimated at $9,043,000,000; new budget, $8,880,000,000.
Navy—Present $1,610,000,000; new $1,613,000,000.
Air Force—Present $18,411,000,000; new $18,736,000,000.

DIVORCE FOLLOWS TRAGEDY—Mrs. Marilyn Damman, 24, right, whose son, Steven, then three, was kidnapped from in front of an East Meadow, N.Y., supermarket in October 1955, has won a divorce from the boy's father, Gerald, 27, left, in Newton, Iowa. She obtained custody of their other child, Pamela Sue, 3, center, and of a child she is expecting. Mrs. Damman blamed the heartbreaking loss of her baby for the breakup of her marriage, saying, "He's accusing me of carelessness because Steven was kidnapped." The Dammans, in a friendlier mood, are shown during a recent visit to his parents' farm outside Newton.

THE ROAD'S THE SAME—No matter how they spell it, it's still the same road. But as you proceed along the highway the name changes as it passes through three different New Jersey towns. In Hobokus, left, it's Wiermus Rd. In Hillsdale, center, they spell it Wiermus. While at Woodcliff Lake, right, it comes out, Weremus Rd.

BEACHED BED—Preparing for a snooze in the open air, actress Virginia Maskell brushes the sand from her feet prior to getting into her Victorian brass bed on the bench of the island of Tortola, British Virgin Islands. The bed is an important item in the new movie, "Our Virgin Island," being filmed on location there. The film deals with a newly married couple who start life on a deserted island with the antique bed as their only possession.

Questions Negro About a Shooting

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP)—A Negro man was taken from a bus here early today and held for questioning in connection with the fatal shooting of a policeman who interrupted a holdup in a bar at Detroit Saturday night.

The arrest was announced by Detroit police. Forrest City police refused to discuss the case in the absence of Chief George Truitt, who was out of the city.

However, Fred N. McCollum, publisher of the Forrest City Times-Herald, was permitted to interview the man, who was held without formal charge.

McCollum said the man identified himself as Leroy Madison, 28. McCollum quoted him as saying that his nephew and a police officer scuffled in a bar and that he, Madison, fled after hearing a shot.

Detroit police said the man answered the description of Turner Madison, sought in the policeman's slaying. The Detroit officers said other participants implicated Turner Madison as the man who fired the fatal shot.

The man's wife and their child also were picked up.

At Detroit police said they had confessions from two other men in the killing.

Police Commissioner Edward S. Piggins himself announced the confessions had a solution to the weekend mystery, terming the police work in the case "magnificent."

$3.9 Billion Requested for Foreign Aid

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was urged today to provide $3,940,000,000 in "critically needed" new foreign aid funds to offset Communist Russia's threats to attack, subvert and terrorize free nations.

President Eisenhower, making the request in his budget message, estimated foreign aid spending during the year starting July 1 at $3,868,000,000, up 119 million dollars from the current year's figure. Much of the spending will be from money already appropriated.

The fund, carrying America's aid program into a 12th straight year, would pay for military, economic and technical assistance to 50 or more countries.

The request for new money is 88 million dollars more than last year's Eisenhower proposal, which Congress cut by a billion dollars. It includes $1,800,000,000 for military assistance, 865 millions in defense support for economic help to countries getting the arms aid, and $1,275,000,000 in other economic and technical assistance including easy payment development loans.

Eisenhower also gave notice he might ask for an additional 200 million dollars to begin furnishing intermediate range missiles to European allies who agree to base them on their territory.

Eisenhower proposed that Congress authorize these four additional steps to back up the aid program.

1. Extend the Reciprocal Trade Act, which expires June 30, for another five years and permit more tariff-cutting agreements with friendly countries.

2. Approve U.S. membership in the proposed international trade organization which will seek to set up a code of fair commercial conduct.

3. Repeal a law which he said "virtually prohibits normal competitive bidding" by foreign countries on defense contracts.

4. Add two billion dollars more to the capital of the government's Export-Import Bank.

Eisenhower put in a strong plea for the need of economic as well as military aid funds.

Jacket curves gently in at the waistline for easy fit. Collar and waistline have identical fringed and knotted ties. Softly-draped dress in rayon mat jersey (center) is by Harvey Bern. It has draped bodice, wide skirt and is worn with its own cropped cardigan that has floral motif cut and applied by hand. Cotton knit jersey dress (right) by Claire McCardell is belted, has straight-hanging back and high, rounded neckline. All of the designs shown here are in Jasco Jersey, a fabric that drapes well.

Why Burn Over an Old Flame

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm absolutely frantic! An old flame of my husband's has come back to town and he has been seen having lunch with her. We've been married several years and this is the first time such a thing has happened. I don't know whether to confront my husband with the knowledge I have, or try to let the thing ride.

WISTERIA
Dear Wisteria: You're one of the women who explain why husbands sometimes feel an urgency to lie, or do things in secret when they'd much rather be frank about them. Treat the matter as perfectly commonplace (which it is). Suppose your husband came home and said, "Dear, who do you think has moved back to town? Sheila! And I'm having lunch with her tomorrow." Can you imagine the rumormongers? Men traditionally shy from unpleasantness, so — he remains quiet but I assure you, uneasy. You bring up the subject, "Darling, I hear Sheila has moved back here. I'll bet you'd love to see her." You'll take every wind out of his sails. Please bear in mind that Sheila, too, has grown middle aged, that if she had once wanted your husband, she probably would have snagged him, and third, if he had wanted her, he would have put more oomph into his wooing. You are the girl he wanted, you're the one he wooed, and he's been perfectly happy with you for many years. One, or even several exposures to an old flame won't change him.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My 19-year-old son is dating a girl who recently left home because of intolerable conditions. She has taken a room with a married couple. What is the best way for our son to visit her and avoid gossip?

FAY
Dear Fay: Your son cannot expect to be entertained in her home, he must call for and return her to her home, without visiting. If they want to spend a quiet evening "at home," have the girl visit you. She would love to be part of a real family again. Just let the boy exercise common sense, with the thought in mind that a girl's reputation is like Dresden china — very valuable and easily broken.

Dear Dorothy Dix: The other day I faintly and my fiancé broke our engagement with the excuse that he wasn't wealthy enough to support a sick wife. It's you think he saved me!

ALINE
Dear Aline: Perhaps, but he did not like the mental image you conjured up. Sickness is expensive, and it would indeed take a wealthy man to support a sick wife. Better bring your health to par. If you want to be the leading lady in a wedding scene.

Dear Dorothy Dix: The man I love has been in prison for five years. During that time he has changed so much it's miraculous. He'll be released in April and we want to get married. My mother says she'll disown me if we do. I think my love for him is more important than my family. Don't you?

HARRIET
Dear Harriet: I'd certainly give this romance a long time to prove itself before rushing into marriage. You can't tell, at this point, whether the boy has changed fundamentally or not. To reach a decision you need the help and advice of many older, experienced people — your family, the boy's folks, your minister and someone connected with the prison who has known the boy during his stay there. Please be cautious about this marriage.

stiffening the aid program, largely science-oriented, for the school construction program which he asked last year, but which was rejected by Congress.

The aid program, to cost an estimated billion dollars spread over a four-year period, will be detailed in legislative proposals which the President said he would send to Congress later.

Parts of the program already disclosed include provision for 10,000 college scholarships and 1,000 or more graduate fellowships a year and an extensive program of matching grants to states to select, guide and train outstanding students, improve teaching facilities in science and mathematics and promote foreign language studies. The states would handle most details.

Both this program and expansion of related work by the National Science Foundation were proposed after Russian scientific achievements brought complaints that this nation was falling down in its training of scientists and technicians.

soon as the money was appropriated, plus 2½ billions more than it now has on hand for 1958-59.

2. A 500-million-dollar reserve fund to rush development of any breakthroughs in the weapons field, together with authority to switch two billion dollars around within the armed services "in order to take prompt advantage of new developments."

3. For foreign military and related aid, $3,868,000,000 to be spent in the coming fiscal year. This is a 119-million-dollar increase over the current figure. The proposal looks like one of the hottest issues to come before the new Congress.

All told, the President's new budget calls for 1958-59 spending at more than a billion dollars over the current rate, even allowing for recent speedups in missile and other weapons programs. The current spending program, running at $72,800,000,000 a year, is the highest in American peacetime history.

Eisenhower called for cutbacks as well as increases in the new budget. For the armed forces, he recommended a 1½-billion-dollar slash in manpower, installations and older type weapons, including B29 bombers and some other aircraft. He proposed "curtailments, revisions or eliminations" of many nonmilitary programs, ranging from federal payments to farmers to expenditures for war veteran services and benefits.

Truman Fears So Called Loss of Friends

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said today he considers loss of the friendship of our European and South American friends the most serious foreign policy error of the Eisenhower administration.

He made the comment in response to a reporter's question. Asked the reason for his opinion, Truman replied: "They weren't well treated."

He did not discuss the matter further.

Truman praised President Eisenhower's new letter to Soviet Premier Bulganin as a good document, an objective document, that contains a plan for action.

"I don't trust the Russians. I never have. I don't think the Russians will go through with it (Eisenhower's suggestions for preparation of a summit meeting) but I think we ought to continue talking with them," he said.

"Sooner or later the Russians might conclude that it's to their best interests to carry out their agreements."

Truman made the comments as he walked across town for a breakfast chat with James A. Farley, former Democratic national chairman. Afterward, he made the mile and a quarter trip back by taxi.

Truman also talked to reporters about rising unemployment in the country.

"I'm sorry to hear there is no financial policy in the government which is designed to help," he said. "Increased interest rates are working for the people who already have money. That's what brought this (unemployment) about. It's going to cause some trouble. I hope I'm wrong," he said.

What he has read, Truman said, "has indicated the situation will get worse before it gets better."

To reverse the unemployment trend, he suggested the economy be placed on an expanding basis through an accelerated public works program and increased foreign aid and trade.

In a news interview yesterday, Truman called Eisenhower "a fine, honorable gentleman" who "was a great military commander in Europe and in NATO, when he had someone to tell him what to do."

The Indian chief Tecumseh fought against the Americans in the War of 1812 as a brigadier-general in the British army.

Extra Point Rule Changed to End Ties

By MERCER BAILEY
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Football coaches have a new strategy problem to cope with today: Is it better to try for a one-point conversion after a touchdown, or gamble for a two-point-conversion?

That option — one point if kicked, two points if by a run or a pass — was written into football law yesterday, along with a more liberal substitution rule and several other changes.

The new scoring rule, first change in football's point system in more than 40 years, and other revisions were adopted at the closing session of the Football Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

The scoring change — designed to reduce the number of ties and boost fan appeal — came as a surprise. Proposed by Committee Chairman H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, athletic director at Michigan, the rule originally was scheduled for a year's study by a subcommittee.

"Sure it'll kick up a controversy," said Crisler.

Opinion of coaches was divided.
Several agreed with Crisler the change would make football more exciting and "open up the game."

Other reaction, includes such remarks as "very interesting."
"I like it." "Progressive."

"A good idea," "fewer teams will kick," "teams will still go for the kicked extra point."

On the other side, "Ridiculous."
"They're de-emphasizing kicking," "can't see any great merit to the thing."

Red Sanders of UCLA and Blainton Collier of Kentucky were among those voicing approval.
Terry Brennan of Notre Dame called it ridiculous.

colleges with limited squads. Crisler said. Effective immediately, both starters and substitutes will be able to make two appearances in each quarter. For the past three seasons, only the players who started a quarter could leave and be eligible to return during the same quarter.

THE ANSWER TO SPUTNIK?—President Eisenhower has called for a four-year, $1.6 billion-dollar program to spur science education for the missile and satellite age. Newsweek, which shows how the money is to be spent. Drafted by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the seven-point program allows wide latitude to the states in the spending of the money. Even so, indications are that the proposal faces heavy going in Congress—from those who oppose all Federal aid to education, from those who say the plan does not allow Washington enough control over the states and from those who claim the program fails to meet the nation's needs.

CAPITOL GUMSHOES OFF TO A FAST START—Business is brisk for Congressional investigators as the second session of the 85th Congress gets underway. Sketched above are some of the investigations they face this year, an important one for them because of Congressional elections this fall.

COURT FIGHT—Police had to restore order when a free-for-all interrupted the basketball game between the Detroit Pistons and the Hawks in St. Louis. Coach Alex Hannan, snarling Slater Martin, left, as he uncorks a punch at a hidden visitor, Jack Coleman, Ned Park of the home club hold Sweetwater Clifton, foreground. Two players were injured.

RED SEVEN-SEATER—This new Russian ZIL-111, photographed in Moscow, is scheduled to be put into production in 1958, according to the caption which accompanied this picture received from an official source. A seven-seater, it has an eight-cylinder, 220-horsepower engine, giving it a top speed of about 100 miles an hour. The car appears to be styled after the 1955 Packard.

LOWEST TEMPERATURE

Lowest official temperature ever recorded in continental United States was at Rogers Pass, Mont. in 1941, with a reading of 70 degrees below zero.

Though 500 miles from the sea, Basel, Switzerland, handles some 4,000,000 tons of ship cargo annually.

MAINTAINS BALANCE

A vice president is not allowed to vote on measures before the Senate except in case of a tie, because to do so would disturb the principle of state equality. If he were given this right, his home state would have three votes as against two for the other states, because each state is represented by two senators.

FEW SEEN

Of the myriad of stars in the heavens, only a mere 4,693 to 2,000 individual stars can be seen above the horizon at any one time.

Attempt Fails to Get Crosby Tourney Cash

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. — An attempt to rob the Bing Crosby golf tournament of an estimated $100,000 in receipts ended in a fight for a gun and capture of the gunman before dawn today, a deputy sheriff said.

The deputy, Tom Martin, guarding two safes across the street from the plush Del Monte Lodge, said he suffered powder burns in the struggle before overpowering the unidentified gunman and taking him to jail at nearby Salinas.

The man refused to give any name and was booked as John Doe.

Martin said Chester Gillette, treasurer of Del Monte Properties Co., and Frank Marton, an auditor, started to get in their car outside the offices about 1:30 a.m.

The man came across the street and got in the back of their car, Martin said. "He had a suitcase, some adhesive tape and some binding ropes and he told Gillette a partner was holding Mrs. Gillette. He said if they resisted in any way, they would be killed and Mrs. Gillette, too," Martin said.

Martin said the gunman forced the two men to open the front door of the finance building, "but in order to get where the safes were, they had to call me," he said.

"It was only after I had opened the door that I saw this man had a gun in their hands. I had a gun too, but if I used it I figured they would be killed, so I dropped my gun at his orders and got face down on the floor.

"I pretended I was very sick and the ruse worked. When he came close I grabbed his gun hand and there was an awful fight."

Gillette, who said his wife never had been called, said the man seemed to know quite a bit about the place and where the safes were.

PITCHMAN—Terry Donovan, left, business manager of the San Francisco Giants, and Joe (Yankee Flash) Gordon, center, lend an ear to Garry Schumacher, the club's public relations man, after a Hot Stove League Dinner in Merced, Calif.

THE STORY: A detail of troops escorting Connie Ashland to comfortable quarters catches up with Ward Sebastian's mule train, carrying Army supplies. The troops are expected to quell an uprising of Modocs led by Captain Jack.

"Lieutenant," the tall man said, "we meet again. I'm Sebastian, and you're old catamount is Sam Lester."

"Philip Ashland, here. And my sister, Constance."

Ward Sebastian nodded. "Your sister and I met in Yreka last night."

"Oh, yes, of course. She was with Captain Dillon when he—"

"You—well..."

Sebastian chuckled briefly. "Captain Dillon and I did argue some. But everything came out all right."

After dinner, they went back into the other room, where Philip Ashland began getting into his overcoat. "I want to see how my men are making out, cooking their own rations on that punk-house stove. I won't be long."

Sam Lester also reached for his coat. "I'll be taking a look at the mules, Ward. Then I'm turning in. Morning comes early to my old bones." He bobbed his grizzled head to Connie Ashland. "Good night, Miss. Got your beauty sleep. Not that you really need it, of course."

She smiled at him. "Good night, Sam."

Ward Sebastian chuckled as the door closed behind old Sam. "You've made a conquest, Miss Ashland. With most women, Sam finds it hard to even be polite. From what I've been able to observe, the two things Sam seems to have the least use for in this world, are women and the military."

She seized the opening quickly. "You're not exactly fond of the military yourself, are you?"

"I wouldn't put it that way. I resent the need of having the military about."

"While I," she retorted, "doubt the military is finding any great pleasure in being here. Certainly Captain Dillon and his men must be finding little to cheer about, having to make camp along the trail on a night like this."

HEADS ATOMIC STUDIES—Dr. Herbert L. Anderson, 43, has been appointed director of the Enrico Fermi Institute of Nuclear Studies at Chicago. He succeeds Dr. Samuel K. Allison, who resigned the administrative duties to devote more time to studies of low energy particles.

Sebastian shrugged. "For that, Dillon's men can thank their captain's stiff neck. You may remember me arguing the point with him last night, insisting on a early start so I could reach this ranch. If Captain Dillon had been willing to accept the word of a civilian, he'd be sharing this comfortable fire with us."

She was watching him, studying him. His glance was fixed on the fire, his chin jutting slightly as his teeth clenched his pipe stem, and little knots of muscles bunched at his jaw corners. He was sober, frowning a little.

"You really are bitter at us, aren't you?"

"No." He shook his head. "The military can't help being here. They're under orders. But they are the gun aimed at the head of the Modocs. Put it that the military is symbolic of what some people feel is unjust oppression."

"You mean our sympathies are with the Indian and against your own people?"

He shook his head again. "It's not that simple. Sometimes I almost wish I could be all one way or the other. A few days ago I helped bury several men I've known well, victims of a surprise raid by some of the wilder Modocs. These were people of my own kind of blood, and at the time I was very bitter, hating all Modocs—all Indians. Later, however, when I'd cooled off some and began totaling up everything—well... he shrugged.

"Totalling up, what?"

"Miss Ashland, you mean

you've never heard of Ben Wright and his gallant crew?

"No, I never did."

"I'll tell you, and let you define real savagery. There was to be a feast to celebrate a new-found peace between the white man and the Modoc. This was all the white man's suggestion, and he would furnish the food. Only the food was to be charged with strychnine poison, and—"

"Oh, no—no!" exclaimed Connie Ashland, color draining from her cheeks. "Not such a thing as that. It couldn't have been..."

"Yet it was!" said Sebastian grimly. "As in all such things, there are claims and counter-claims. Yet it is a matter of record that Ben Wright, leader of the whites, laid in a big supply of strychnine before leaving Yreka for the meeting with the Modocs."

"You're trying to tell me she said lightly, "that the Indians ate the poisoned food and—"

"No. Something about it all aroused the suspicion of the Modoc chief, and he ordered his people not to touch the food until the whites had begun to eat. Realizing that their fine scheme of wholesale poisoning had misfired, Wright and his crowd opened up on the Modocs without warning and shot them down like rabbits. Wright, himself, killed the father of Kentipoo, or Captain Jack as he is most commonly known."

ADVERTISING IS NEWS, TOO!

People buy this newspaper for news of the world, the country and our community in particular. Our readers are also interested in news about food, clothes, entertainment, automobiles, furniture and all of the necessities and luxuries that have to do with daily living.

Through advertising in this paper you can give our readers the up-to-date news about your merchandise and services. Each one of your advertisements can be a newspaper within a newspaper.

Of course you should know all about the circulation of the newspaper that is carrying the news of your business. How many people buy the paper? Where are they located? How was the circulation obtained? To give you this information and many other facts that you need and have a right to know when you buy advertising space, this newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Established in 1914, the Bureau is a cooperative, nonprofit association of 3,575 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers. Its purpose is to furnish advertisers with verified reports on the circulation of its publisher members.

At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced auditors makes a thorough inspection and audit of our circulation records, just as the bank examiner makes a check of your bank's records. The information thus obtained is published in official A.B.C. reports. When you buy space in this newspaper, our A.B.C. report tells you just what, in circulation values, you get for your advertising investment.
